

Who's talking?

All group members write down their perceptions of the amount of talking done by each person in the group, and the ideal amount of talking that should be done by each person. After everyone has completed their estimates, have a discussion about what each person can do to make the level of contributions appropriate.

| Names of team members | % of talking done by this person | Ideal % of talking done by this person |
|------------------------------|---|---|
| | | |
| | | |
| | | |
| | | |
| | | |
| | | |
| | | |
| TOTAL | 100% | 100% |

Adapted from: Gibbs, G. (1994) Learning in Teams: A Group Manual. Great Britain, the Oxford Centre for Staff Development. p 43